Simple Inexpensive Remedy Checks
Early Tendency to Constipation.

About the first thing impressed on the young mother is the necessity for regularity in her baby, which brings up the question of the most desirable laxative for children's use.

Mrs. Jesse Richardson, Philpot, Ky., says she has used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for the past year and that there is no medicine in the world like it. She writes: "My little son, William Jr., just loved it because it is so pleasant to take, and everybody talks about his being such a fine healthy boy."

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a compound of simple laxative herbs, free from any opiate or narcotic drug, and is the standard remedy for constipation in thousands of homes throughout the land. Drug stores everywhere sell it for fifty cents a bottle. Get a bottle of this excellent remedy, and have it in the house. A

LABOR GETS BETTER PAY IN GERMANY

As Result of the War but Higher Food Prices Eat Up the Wage Advance.

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—Labor statisticians, who have been watching the situation closely and critically as the months of war have passed, agree with a fair degree of unanimity on the general effect of the conflict on wages paid today and the cost of living—as to whether or not the workingman's pay has increased as fast as prices of foodstuffs have.

They agree that the men in the "war materials" trades, and the women for that matter, today are receiving fifty, seventy and even one hundred per cent more than they ever did before. In most cases the advance is nearer to one hundred per cent than fifty or seventy because there is no limit to the amount of work to do, there is unlimited opportunity for overtime work, wages are higher than usual and help is scarce.

In other skilled trades that supply ordinary needs—the printing and carpenter for instance—the advance it is agreed, is neither so great nor so even. The printer is making from three to five marks a day more than he used to; the carpenter's gain depends on how much work he has the strength or the inclination

IF YOU HAVE CATARRH READ THIS

Breathe Hyomei Four Times a Day and Watch Results. Gives Prompt Relief.

The pleasantest, most convenient and most scientific method for the treatment of catarrh is Hyomei. Simply put a few drops of Hyomei in the inhaler that comes with every complete package and then breathe its air for a few minutes, four times a day.

It seems remarkable that so simple a way of treating catarrh will effect such quick relief, but the most important discoveries of science have always been the simplest. By breathing Hyomei in this way every particle of air that enters the air passages of the throat and head and goes into the lungs is charged with a healing balsam that kills the germs and bacilli of catarrh and soothes and allays all irritation.

The first day's use of Hyomei will show an improvement and in a short time there should be no further trouble from catarrh. Its action is rapid and lasting.

You take no risk in buying Hyomei. A complete outfit is inexpensive but if after using you can say that it has not helped you Wells-Haymaker Co. will return your money. What other treatment for catarrh is sold under a guarantee like this?—Advertisement.

It is only a short time that you can call her mother's baby—soon she will be a school girl and then a young lady—but a portrait of mother and baby keeps for all time, the memory of those happy days. It is none too early to have portraits made for Christmas.

to do; the brewer is getting an even ten marks more a week; the leather worker, like the carpenter, can be gauged only by his capacity.

The benefits accruing to the unskilled workers simply cannot be estimated because they are so variable and so dependent upon employer's generosity, chance circumstances and the like. The authorities are agreed that these workers have been less benefited than any others, but find it impossible to determine the degree of benefit.

High Cost of Living.
Alwin Koersten, secretary of the central employment bureau of the Berlin trades, who might be termed a walking statistical office, and who is constantly in close touch with workers of all kinds, is positive that living costs have advanced faster than wages, and that the "war materials" workers are the only ones who have kept up.

He is convinced that food prices have risen from eighty to one hundred per cent or faster than the wages either of unskilled labor or of those branches of skilled labor not engaged in making war materials. Though far from being a pessimist, his inclination is to look at the matter from the standpoint of the many who have had a minimum of gain out of higher wages.

Max Steffen, head of the huge employment agency for unskilled workmen, even less than Mr. Koersten, believes that prices have risen outstripped wages, chiefly because he is in closest touch with the great mass of men, and women, on whom the effect of the war has been more to give them work than to raise the wages they had been getting.

He has seen most of the thousands who drift into his enormous establishment placed where they can earn a livelihood more readily than ever before, but he also has heard from countless lips the story of the difficulty of making both ends meet. His own experiences with the cost of living has made him loathe to believe that the war has been an unmitigated benefit for the worker who stays at home.

Different Opinion.
Quite a different opinion is Dr. O. Becker, head of the association of German employment bureaus, who forms his opinion from facts and figures gathered from all parts of the German empire, and who, in consequence, believes that the general situation of the workingman has vastly improved and that his wages by and large, have gone up faster than the cost of living.

In arriving at this decision he takes into account the situation of the unskilled workers, and in agreeing with Mr. Steffen that their wages have not been appreciably great, he believes that the more and more favorable status of the country worker, in conjunction with the rapid decrease in non-employment, over-balances higher prices.

The women, far more than the men, have been the gainers in the unskilled trades, and to them, it is believed, is due the large and unexpected increase in savings deposits which the banks have recorded.

The portion of them—the minority it is estimated—have, it is true, had to go to work alongside husbands and brothers who are not serving in the army, but a larger portion are comparatively prosperous.

This is due, as Mr. Koersten explains, roughly to two things. In the first place the biggest eater and most expensive member of the family, the man, is gone and the expenses of his upkeep are being met by the government. In the second place the woman now has more than one source of income—her share of her husband's pay and what she herself earns. This applies, of course, only to the working woman.

When Baby Has the Croup.
When a mother is awakened from sound sleep to find her child who has gone to bed apparently in the best of health struggling for breath, she is naturally alarmed. Yet if she can keep her presence of mind and give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy every ten minutes until vomiting is produced, quick relief will follow and the child will drop to sleep to awaken in the morning as well as ever. This remedy has been in use for many years with uniform success. Obtainable everywhere.—Advertisement.

PRESENT ACTIVITY IN THE BALKANS

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Admiral Peary has been the victim of some good natured joking since he made his perilous drop through the air of 1,200 feet during his first voyage to the heavens in an aeroplane.

When he finally reached earth, the admiral said: "It was thrilling but I thought everybody came down that way."

Secretly, he said, if he had known he was rushing to instant death he would not have been so buoyant. It reminded him of the Irishman in the railway collision who thought that trains "always stopped like that."

The experience also proved that you may go to the North Pole and yet have something to learn about going.

Winsor McKay has at last found what he believes is the true specimen of complete intoxication. A neighbor of his at Sheephead Bay came home early the other morning with the top of a coal hole and tried to play it on his phonograph.

The Liberal Club is all in a flutter over the new marriage ceremony that has been offered by the Rev. Bouck White, the parson Socialist. The Liberal Club is down in the artistic shadows of Washington square. The patrons talk the uplift, bla-bla and some of them read churches.

The new ceremony does not in any obvious way change the status in the man and woman with respect to each other. It seems to constitute no more than a ritual obligato to their own initiative.

It is a self dissolving bond and critics say it is only shortly removed from the free love propaganda.

Street speakers for the suffrage cause in New York have found that heckling has given away to sympathetic comment and encouraging applause. "Broadway treats us as philosophers and Wall street like friends and guides," says Miss Eleanor Brannon, one of the speakers.

Miss Rose Bower, like young Lochivar comes out of the West to help the East win votes for women. Instead of a steed, she brings her trusty cornet and skims about the city in suffrage automobiles, tooting lustily for the cause and making speeches in between times.

The speakers have found that their most interested audience are the young Russian Jews who read the best books on sociology and kindred subjects and contribute to our music.

If the stranger in New York is a devotee of musical comedy—and there are only one or two running this season—he may find his heart's desire at the Hippodrome production of "Hip-Hip Hooray." It offers all of a dozen diverting musical comedies for one admission to say nothing of scenic spectacles, extravaganzas and matchless ballets.

R. H. Burnside, the master of the Hip reveals, has achieved the impossible in stage settings. No play has ever been talked so much about and the amount of publicity—special stories and news articles—received by the house has astonished publicity disseminators and press agents.

It is the first advent of John Philip Sousa into the "two a day" and the bandmaster is beginning to look like a regular Broadway actor even to the fur coat and spats. It will keep him in New York all season which he says is much better than galavanting around the country with a troupe of trained musicians.

The Chez Fysher Cabaret, closed in Paris on account of the war, is to be transferred to Broadway. A building has been leased at No. 121 West Forty-fourth street. Mme. De Luza, the star dancer, is here and will appear in the production. A lot of French cabaret singers are in New York jobless and with no prospect of employment in sight. They patronize the French table d'hotes and give atmosphere to the places.

How She Acquired "Feminine Charm"

A nicely-dressed woman sat beside me in the train. Everyone stared at her. It was not her beauty of feature that held our eyes, nor her costume. But there was something about her face and expression—I risked it and asked: "Would you mind telling me how you keep your complexion so dazlingly pure? Don't think me impertinent, but you seem over 30, yet haven't a line in your face, and your cheeks are quite peach-like. How do you do it?"

Laughing, she said: "That's easy. I remove my skin. Sounds shocking, doesn't it? But listen. Instead of cosmetics I use only pure meroilized wax, procurable at any drugstore. I apply this nightly, like cold cream, washing it off mornings. This gently absorbs the soiled, weather-beaten film-skin, without pain or discomfort, thus revealing the fresh, clear under-skin. Every woman has a beautiful complexion underneath you know. Then, to ward off wrinkles, I use a face bath made by dissolving powdered saxolite (one ounce) in one-half pint white hashel—a harmless astringent which tones the skin wonderfully. Very simple, isn't it?" thought so. I'm now trying her plan and like it immensely. —Milliet Brown in The Story Teller.
